(57)Abstract:

PURPOSE: To mechanize the exchange jobs between various types of currency and traveler's checks by performing the conversion of amounts among different types of currency based on the exchange rates shown by a CPU and printing various currency units and amounts to cope with each currency unit.

CONSTITUTION: The data are processed by a CPU and a conversion rate and the next operating instruction is displayed on a CRT 3 with an instruction of the CPU. A customer confirms the exchange rate and puts a card or the yen notes into each slit. In a card process mode, an identification number and an amount to be drawn are inputted via a keyboard 4. Thus a dollar conversion amount and a yen amount to be drawn are displayed on the CRT 3. Then the customer confirms these two amounts and pushes a confirmation key, and a traveler's check producing machine 7 prints a designated currently unit and a designated amount under the control of a control part 1. Then the machine 7 pays a check and draws the corresponding amount out of the account of the customer. The same procedure is also available with the deposit of the yen notes. Then the checks and the change are discharged from the machine 7 and a coin discharging machine 6. Finally the details of the transactions are printed out by a magnetic card processing/receipt issuing machine 8.
